Soluble Pacific Guano. 200 LBS. SOLUBLE PACIFIC GUANO contains 70 lbs. unimal matter, yielding

BY H. J. STAHLE.

Also 80 to 90 lbs. earthy bone Phosphate of lime 30 lbs. of which are soluble phosphate.

It combines all the advantages of the best rands of Super Phosphate, with those of Peruvian Guano.

By reason of its greater concentration, we recommend 29 per ct. less by weight to be used per acre, than of any fertilizer costing the same per ton; and no more per acre than of those selling at 20 per ct. more per ton.-Hence its economy.

This guano weighs 65 lbs. per bushel, hence in applying it farmers must be governed by weight and not by bulk, for it is much lighter than the Super Phosphates. Every cargo duly inspected. JOHN S. REESE & CO. GENERAL AGENTS FOR THE SOUTH,

"Flour of Bone." WE will give a money guarantee of the purity of this article. It is pure unsteamed, unburnt bone, reduced to the fineness of flour, which adds 100 per ct. to its value. It is as quick and active as acid dissolved bone, hence its value is vastly greater because it hence its value is vastly greater, because it contains neither acid nor water, which neces-sarily add weight, and reduce the quantity of valuable elements. We recommend 250 lbs. to be used in place of 300 lbs. Super Phosphate or dissolved bone.

CAMPAIGN SONG. [TUNE:-"That's What's the Matter."] We're on the road our Fathers trod No more the spy, with treacherous nod, Can wield a Despot's cruel rod, And that's what's the matter The men whose slanders round us flew,

Who spied, and lied, and mobbed us too. Can't do just as they used to do-And that's what's the matter. CHORUS: That's what's the matter, Their mobs have had to scatter, When Andy shot quacks went to p And that's what's the matter.

Bastiles, Provo's, Pimps, and wags, And thieves, who stole our money bags, Don't want us now to "hist our flags," And that's what's the matter. But always to the Union, true, We'll not desert, because they do Here goes the old Red, White and Blue, And that's what's the matter. CHOBUS: That's what's the matter, &c. "Sustain the President," they said,
"Uphold the Union's drooping head,"

But now they wish that both were dead, And that's what's the matter. The "President shall be sustained." By faith and loyalty, unfeigned, And Shoddy be to Union chained. And that's what's the matter. CHORUS: That's what's the matter. &c.

We're for the Union, as before, The Constitution, and no more We swear the oath Old Jackson swore And that's what's the matter. The tractorous 'Rump,' if need, must feel They shall not harm the Public weal, And that's what's the matter CHORUS: That's what's the matter, &c.

We've heard Thad's whip in Congress crack We've seen the 'niggers' at his back, He hates the White and loves the Black, And that's what's the matter. But don't you hear the white men shout? Old Thad and Charles are now played out, And the great Fifteen have got the gout! And that's what's the mutter! CHORUS: That's what's the matter, &c.

A GREAT LETTER.

POLITICAL PARSONS ON THE BACK.

Judge Black's Reply to the Rev. Alfred Nevin. Politics in the Pulpit Handled without Gloves.

To the Reverend Affred Nevin, D. D.
MY DEAR SIR: Your letter addressed to me through the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin disappoints me; because I did not expect it to come in that way, and because liege which may be abused; you expressly admit that some clergymen have abused; his subsequent reign was distinguished it, "and by doing so did more than ed by justice and mercy, the integrity of any other class of men to commence and the empire was preserved in peace, and the continue the late rebellion." While, theregreat Theodosian code, the product of that clerical support here and heaven hereaffore, we can assert no power to dictate your conduct, much less to force you, we are surely not wrong when we entreat you to impose upon yourselves those restrictions which reason and revelation have a Christian minister; for hereformed the men. Acting and reacting on one another, shown to be necessary for the good of the criminal by a direct appeal to his own they go down together in the direction. church and the safety of civil society.

I acknowledge that your commission is a very broad one. You must "declare the counsel of God," to the end that inners may be convinced and converts ouilt up in their most holy faith. Truth, justice, temperance, humility, mercy, peace, brotherly kindness, charity—the whole circle of the Christian virtues pen rebuke, or by a general delivery of the law which condemns them. You are of another. The latter effects no religious not bound to pause in the performance of purpose whatever; but the chances are this duty because it may offend a power-innety-nine in a hundred that he excites ful ruler or a strong political party. Nor should you shrink from it when bad men, or their own purposes, approve what you lo. Elevate the moral character, enighten the darkness, and purify the hearts of those who are under your spiritual charge, at all hazards; for this is the work which your great Task-master has given you to do, and he will admit no from their own sins to the sins, real or imputed, of other people. By teaching his congregation that they are better than other men, he fills their hearts with self-conceit, bigotry, spiritual pride, envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness. Instead of the exhortation, which they need to take the beam out of their own. eye, he incites them to pluck the mote from their brother's. He does not tell hem what they shall do to be saved, but he instructs them very carefully how they shall act for the destruction of others.-He rouses and encourages to the utmost of his ability, those brutal passions which result in riot, bloodshed, spoilation, eivil war, and general corruption of morals.

You commit a grievous error in supposing that polities and religion are so mingled together that you cannot preach one without introducing the other.— Christ and his apostles kept them perfectly separate. They announced the great facts of the Gospel to each individual whom they addressed. When these were accepted the believer was told to repent and be baptized for the remission of his sins, and afterwards to regulate his own life by the rules of a pure and perfect moranty. They expressed no preference for one form of government over another, they provoked no political revolutions. and they proposed no legal reforms. If they had done so they would have flatly contradicted the declaration that Christ's Kingdom was not of this world, and Christianity itself would have died out in half a century. But they accepted the relations which were created by human law and exhorted their disciples to discharge faithfully the duties which arose out of them. Though the laws which defined the authority of husbands, parents, masters and magistrates were as bad as human perversity could make them, yet the early Christians contented themselves with teaching moderation in the exercise of legal power, and uniformly inculcated the virtues of obedience and fidelity upon the virtues of obedience and idelity upon the plant of the virtues of obedience and idelity upon the plant of the virtues of obedience and idelity upon the plant of the virtues of obedience and idelity upon the plant of the virtues of obedience and idelity upon the virtues of obedience and virtue an am aware that modern clergymen interpret his words as a justification of the doctrine that support of an existing administration is "part of their allegiance to God." Severally mode and other ecclesiastical bodies have solemnly resolved something to that effect. But they forget that what Paul advised was simple submission, not active assistance to Nero.—The Christians of that day did not endorse his atrocities merely because he was "the The Christians of that day did not endorse his atrocities merely because he was "the administration duly placed in power."—

They did not go with him to the theater, applaud his acting, or praise him in the churches when he kidnapped their brethren, set fire to a city, or desolated a province. Nor did they assist at his apotherous after his death, or represented from the constant of the constant osis after his death, or pronounce funeral sermons to show that he was greater than Compiler.

Paul and Peter did no such thing.

There is nothing in the scriptures to justify the church in applying its disci-pline to any member for offenses purely political, much less for his mere opinions political, much less for his mere opinions or feelings on public affairs. The clergy are without authority, as they are often without fitness, to decide for their congregations what is right or wrong in the legislation of the country. They are not called or sent to propagate any kind of political doctrine. The Church and the political doctrine. The Church and the State are entirely separate and distinct in their origin, their offect, and the sphere of their action; insomuch that the organism of one can never be used for any purpose of the other without injury to both.

Do I therefore say that the Christian religion is to have no the religion is to have no influence on the that can be committed against the gov-political destiny of man? Far from it. ernment of God or man. Perhaps I Notwithstanding the unfaithfulness of ought not to make this broad assertion many professors, it has already changed the face of human society; and it will yet accomplish its mission by spreading peace, independence, truth, justice, and liberty regulated by law, "from the sea to the uttermost ends of the earth." But this will be accomplished only by reforming and elevating the individuals of whom society is composed; not by exasperating communities again; teach other; not by communities again: teach other: not by any alliance with the governments of the world; not by any vulgar partnerships with politicians to kill and plunder their Entletin disappoints me; because I did not expect it to come in that way, and because it does not cover the subject at issue between us. But if I am silent your friends will say, with some show of reason, that you have vindicated "Political Preaching" so triumphantly that all opposition is confounded. I must, therefore, speak freely in reply. In doing so, I mean to say nothing inconsistent with my great respect for your high character in the church and in the world. The admirable style and temper of your own communication deserve to be imitated.

I fully concede the right you claim for clergymen to select their own themes and handle them as they please. You say truly that neither lawyers nor physicians nor any other order of men have the least authority to control you in these particulars. But you will not deny that this is a privallege which may be abused; you expression from the world is subsequent naws and customs of Constantine was followed by the instant abrogation of all laws which fettered the conscience. If the holding of shives or to bond-servants be a practical question among the members of your church, I it might be found in the fact, that long know of nothing which forbids you to teach whatever you conscientously be-lieve to be true on that subject. But in a community where slavery is not only un-known but impossible, why should any preacher make it the subject of his weekly vituperations? You do not improve the religion of the slave-holder by traducing his character, nor mend the spiritual condition of your own people by inaking fate, fore-knowledge, free-will, and other them thirst for the blood of their fellow-points of metaphysical theology. Nor men.

If any person, to whom the service of another is due by the laws of the State in which he lives, shall need your instruc-tions to regulate his personal conduct towards the slave, you are bound in the first place to tell him, that as long as that relation exists he should behave with the utmost humanity and kindness; for this you have the clear warrant of the Apostolic example and precept. In dealing with such a person you may go as much further as your own conscientious interpretation of the Bible will carry you. It you are sure that the divine law does, under all circumstances, make the mere example and present on for the purpose of giving to political preachers in kingland possession of the churches, cathedrals glebe lands and tythes which belonged to the Irish Catholics. The soldier was also rewarded by confiscations and pluncated by confiscations and pluncated by confiscations.

coainst sin before the only tribunal which Christ ever erected on earth; that is to say, the conscience of the sinner himself. The vice of political preaching was wholly unknown to the primative church.

It is true that Paul counselled obedience to the government of Nero; and I am aware that modern clergymen interpret his words as a justification of the can you show for exciting servile insurrection? Who gave you the right to say that John Brown was better than any other thief or murderer, merely because slavery men? I think the minister, in his pulpit dis-courses, is forbidden to touch at all upon that class of subjects which are purely political; such for instance as the banking law, tariff, railroad charters, State rights, the naturalization laws, and negro suf-frage. These are questions of mere political expediency; religion takes no cognizance of them; they come within the sole jurisdiction of the statesman; and the church has no more right to take sides upon them than the civil government has Scipio, more virtuous than Cato, and to use its legislative, judicial or executive more eloquent than Cicero. Political power for the purpose of enforcing principles wholly religious.

ciples wholly religious.

In short, if I am not entirely mistaken, a Christian minister has no authority to preach upon any subjects except those in which divine revelation has given him an infallible rule of faith and practice; and, even upon them he must speak always for the edification of his own hearers, "rightly dividing the word of truth," so as to lead them in the way of all rightcousness. When he does more than this he goes beyond his commission, he becomes a scurvy politician, and his in-fluence is altogether pernicious. The use of the clerical office for the purpose of propagating political doctrines under any circumstances, or with any excuse, is in my judgment not only without authority, but it is the highest crime without giving some additional reasons

In the first place it is grossly dishonest. I employ you as a minister, pay your salary, and build you a church because I have confidence in your theological doctrines. But you may be at the same time wholly unfit for my political leader.— Now, you are guilty of a base fraud upon me, if, instead of preaching religion, you take advantage of the position I have given you to ventilate your crude and with politicians to kill and plunder their ignorant notions on State affairs. I have enemies.

The experience of fifteen centuries proves that political preachers are the great curse of the world. More than half the bloody wars which at different periods have desolated Christendom, were profended. Both classes of preachers fre-quently speak upon the same or similar subjects, but they do so with different objects and aims.

I will make my meaning more clear by taking your own illustrations. You be-lieve in the first day of the week as a religious about them except that they Sabbath and so heliving your duty up.

It is utterly impossible to believe that the elergy of England and Scotland, if they had not been politicians, would have the elergy of England and Scotland, if they had not been politicians, would have thought of waging bloody wers to settle goes two of your pretty faces instead of questions of elections and settle large the politicisms. questions of election and reprobation, would they, spart from their polities, have encouraged and committed the other horristimes of which they were guilty in the name of religion.

Can you think that the Irish were invaded, and conquered, and oppressed, and murdered, and robbed for centuries, merely because the English loved and believed in the Protestant religion? I believed in the Protestant rengion? I suppose you know that those brutal atrocities were carried on for the purpose of giving to political preachers in England possession of the churches, cathedrals, der. The Church and the State bands in couples, and Ireland was the prey whith they ran down together.

Coning to our rwn country you find Massachusetts and Confecticut in colonial times under the sole domination of political preachers. Their treacherous warsupon the Indians for purposes wholly mercenary; their enslaving of white persons, as well as red ones, and setting them abroad, ev "swapping them for thanksumons;" their whipping, imprisoning and killing Quakers and Baptists, for their conscientious opinions; and their basetreatment of such menus Roger Williams and his friends, will mark their government through all time as one of government through all time as one of the cruellest and meanest that ever existed.

Political preachers have not behaved any better since the Revolution than Political preachers have not behaved any better since the Revolution than before. About the commencement of the present century they were busy in their vile vocation all over New England and continued it for many years. The wilful and deliberate slanders habitually uttered from the pulpit against Jefferson, Madisson, and the friends who supported them, were a disgrace to human nature. The immediate effect of this was the Yankee plot to secede from the Union, followed by corrupt combinations with a foreign enemy to betray the liberties of the country. Its remoter consequences are seen in the shancless rapacity and bitter malignity which, even at this moment, are howling for the property and blood of an unarmed and defenseless people.

You and I both remember the political preaching which ushered in and supported the reign of the Know-Nothings, Blood-Tubs, and Plug-Uglies; when Marla Monk was a Saint and Joe Barker was Mayor of Pittshurgh; when pulpits resounded every Sunday with the most injurious falschoods against Catholies; when the public mind was debauched by the inculcation of hypocrisy and deception, when ministers met their political allies in sworn secresy to plot against the rights of their fellow-citizens. You can-allies in sworn secresy to plot against the rights of their fellow-citizens. You can-not forget what came of this—riet, murder, church-burning, lawless violence all over the land, and the subjugation of several great States to the political rule of a party destitute alike of principle and cancelly capacity.

I could easily prove that these clerical politicians, who have tied their churches to the tail of the Abolition party, are criminal on a grander scale than any of their predecessors. But I forbear, partly because I have no time, and partly because it may for such I know he seem which it may, for aught I know, be a sore subject with you. I would not excite your wrath, but rather "provoke you to good works."

Apart from the general subject there are two or three special ideas expressed in your letter from which I venture to dis-

You think that, though a minister may speak from the pulpit on politics he ought not to indicate what party he belongs to. It strikes me, that if he has a party, and wants to give it ecclessiastical aid or comfort, he should boldly avow himself to be what he is, so that all men may know him. Sincerity is the first of virtues. It is had to be a wolf, but a wolf in sheep's clothing is infinitely worse.

You represent the Church as an unfin-ished structure and the State as its scaffolding. I think the church came perfect from the hand of its divine Architectbuilt upon a rock, established, finished, complete—and every one who comes into it by the right door will find a mansion prepared for him. It needs no scaffold. Its founder refused all connection with human governments for scaffolding or any other purpose.

You say (in substance) that, without sometimes taking political subjects, a minister is in danger of falling into a "vague, indefinite, and non-committatskyle," which will do no good and bring him no respect. The gospel is not vague, indefinite or non-committal upon the applied of which it takes invisualisation. subjects of which it takes jurisdiction, and upon them you may preach as loudly as you please. But I admit that in times of great public excitement—an important election or a civil war—mer listen impatiently to the teachings of faith and re-; pentance. A sermon which tells them to-do justice, love mercy and walk humbly before God, is not an entertainment to which they willingly invite themselves. At such a time a clergyman can vastly increase his personal consequence, and win golden opinions from his audience, seasoned discourse on politics. The temptation to gratify them often becomes too strong for the virtue of the preacher. I fear that you yourself are yielding to it. As a mere layman I have no right to advise a Doctor of Divinity, but I hope I am not over presumptuous when I warn you against this specious allurement of Satan. All thoughts of putting the Gos-pel aside because it does not suit the deprayed tastes of the day, and making political harangues to win popularity in a bad world, should be sternly trampled down as the suggestions of that Evil One, who was a liar and a murderer from the

This snull has thoroughly proved itself to be the best article known for curing the Cetarrh, Cold in the Head and Headnehe. It has been found an excellent remedy in many cases of Bore Eyes.—Decrees has been removed by it, and Heading has often been greatly improved by its use.

It is fragrant and agreeable, and GIVES IMMEDIATE RELIES to the dull heavy pains caused by diseases of the head. The sensations after using it are delightful and invigorating. It opens and purges out all obstructions, strengthen the glands, and gives a healthy action to the parts affected. More than Thirty Years' of sule and use of "Dr. Marshall's Catarrh and Headache Heust," has proved its great value for all the common diseases of the head, and at this moment stands higher than ever before. I was very much reduced. The whites of my eyes were very yellow; likewise my skin; my appetite all gone, and unable to digest what I did eat; bowels awollen, irregular and costive. I was very low spirited, and fixed such violent spells of coughing apprients, pleasant aromatics and sugar. Anothelmintics of themselves cannot perform their peculiar functions or have the desired effect, in luness the bowels are kept moderately open. To produce this, gentle purgatives are necessary and such only ought to be used that cannot interfere with the anthelmintic employed. The advantages we claim for this Syrup are: lat. Its power of DESTROYING AND EXPELLING WORMS:

2d. Its mild aperient effect upon the bowels. 3d. Its pleasant taste and odor are advantages are possessed or claimed by very few Vermifuges.
